The first quarter of the trading year has been, to put it mildly, dramatic. While the bullish market remains intact for the time being, the threat of greater volatility looms on the horizon. To defend against economic uncertainty, it is important to research, learn about emerging companies and expand one's knowledge base. What better way to do that than from the driver's seat of a Porsche?

Investors can do just that at the Equities 2018 Spring Investor Wealth Conference (<https://www.equities.com/events/equities-com-spring-investor-wealth-conference-pecla>) on April 18.

This premier Investor Wealth event, held at the Porsche Experience Center in Carson, California, will explore innovative trends and companies across the investing landscape. The conference agenda features a range of leaders in cryptocurrency, fintech, robotics, medtech, quantitative funds, real estate and social investing. It is no secret that technology is creating shifts within previously defined sectors, and Equities has selected some of the trailblazers at the forefront of these important changes to participate.

Furthermore, the groundbreaking trends and disruptive innovations of tomorrow are often initially nurtured in the microcap world, and this conference assembles a diverse spectrum of such sophisticated thinkers.

Attending companies include:

- WRIT Media (WRIT) (<https://www.equities.com/companies/writ>): WRIT is a diversified media and software company whose operations include digital currency software development, including trading platforms and Blockchain solutions, content production and distribution; and video game distribution via mobile platforms.

rendered on a map on our customized portal.
